

In the world of racing shifter kart, CRG is world famous. Even so, it was not always like that. CRG began when the founder, was originally known as Kali Kart...

Carlo Vanaria, Roberto Vanaria and Giancarlo Tinini created the company in the 1970's, under the Kali Kart name. Kali Kart was not in the world of Go Kart Racing recognized before 1980, but.

It was at about that period that Kali Karts started producing World Champions. One of these winners was a famous go-kart racer named Mike Wilson.

The Name Change:

The actual basis for the changing of the company name from Kali Karts to CRG is not entirely understood. It is assumed that the leader wanted to create a new reputation for the company, even if.

Just what is clearly understood is precisely why they opted for the name CRG. An example of those imaginative moves was to join forces with Dino Chiesa, one of the best chassis mechanics in the world of shifter kart racing. This team has proved very valuable for CRG.

15 World Championships:

Last year, CRG took home its 15th World Championship win, which cemented them in to the racing history books.

Kali Kart Team has become the organization with leagues of racing shifter kart race on the land that time.

Having said that, they did not stop at that point. New developments: The genes in CRG are always on the move to build new and better Shifter Kart.

In 2010 they accomplished this, releasing the Supra Kart chassis models.

Line Supra kart was created with comfort as a goal.

CRG knows that there are many different go kart racers in existence and has tried to design the Supra line to suit the entire group.

For example: Supra karts are cheap to other models of chassis compared.

- Supra Kart chassis models were desined for both junior and senior racers
- Supra Kart chassis models support both 2 and 4 cycle engines

So, it is obvious that CRG is here to stay.

Although the name has changed, have maintained the improvements and the trophy ceremonies happen.

CRG is obviously uncovering new and interesting improvements to help keep go-kart racers and fans happy.
